

To Whomsoever it May Concern

Ashlesha Bhagwat has worked at kPoint technologies Pvt. Ltd in the period starting 11th July 2011, through the week till the 15th of July 2011. The project she worked on, mapped the access of kPoint, an online learning on demand platform, by new campus recruits of a large IT services company in India. Ashlesha has excellent communication skills and was quickly able to understand the underlying need of the customer to determine accessibility of online training by employees from various locations across the Indian subcontinent. She is very adept at finding information online and could efficiently use applications she discovered to find the geographic locations of several thousand IP addresses. She also presented the locations and some basic statistics using Google Maps in a visually appealing and easy to understand manner.

Ashlesha is diligent and thoughtful. She is quick and intellectually curious and seems to have a talent for numbers and analysis. She asked questions and sought help when required and was a pleasure to work with. I wish her all the best!

Please feel free to contact me with any further questions.
